STANFORD FEMALE COLLEGE.

A Pleasant and Successful Session Closes in Brilliance.

Another session of Stanford Female College was brought to a fitting close at midnight, Friday, in interesting exercises that were presented in an artistic manner, without a hitch or lull in the interest displayed by an audience that filled auditorium, gallery, aisles, lobby and every niche and corner of the Opera House. As the building can seat about 600 people, there must have been fully 750 present. Hardly a man was permitted to retain his seat, being forced out to make room for the ladies, who filled nearly every chair in the auditorium and made it look like a veritable flower garden of beauty.

The pretty school girls were on hand at the appointed hour and promptly at 8 o'clock President J. M. Hubbard, who believes in being on time, rang the curtain up and after requesting the audience to be quiet, asked Rev. T. J. Godbey to invoke the Divine blessing, which he did in a few well-chosen words, and the exercises were inaugurated by a very creditable rendition of Fatinitz by Misses Alpha Tyree, Annie Dishman, Emma Owsley and Susie Newland. A class of large girls then recited in unison "Kentucky Belle" and a smaller set "Edith's Secret" in a clear and distinct manner, followed by Miss Gertie Grady, who rendered "Flying Jim's Leap" with much spirit and elocutionary effect. The calisthenic exercises by the smaller girls was given in perfect time to the music and showed that they had been carefully trained. Miss Alpha Tyree favored the audience next with an instrumental solo, which elicited much applause, besides a wealth of beautiful flowers artistically arranged in the shape of a harp. Miss Essie Burch recited "Whistling in Heaven" very excellently, followed by a class that gave "The Three Belles" in perfect concert. "The Broken Pitcher" by Miss Annie Hale was short and sweet and "The Bewitched Clock" by Miss Flor Ballou, a very superior piece of elocutionary work. "Norma" was skillfully executed by Misses Dovie Talbot, Annie Hurst, Annie Dishman and Miss Williams, the latter taking the place of Miss Laura McAnally, who was sick.

The curtain dropped here and rose on the calisthenic class of large girls, who went through the various maneuvers with the precision of clock-work. Miss Ophelia Lackey gave a very charming rendition of "Robert of Lincoln" and Miss Annie Green was fully as felicitous in "The Sioux Chief's Daughter." Both of these young ladies did amazingly well. Miss Dollie Williams, the lovely and highly cultivated music teacher, treated the audience to a solo—"Waiting," which she gave with exquisite sweetness and grace. Miss Clara Lackey went through the long recitation of "Paradise of Peru," without a moment's hesitancy at any point and in a manner which must have made her father and mother feel very proud of her. Even the alarm of fire caused by the chemical light flashed on her did not disconcert her or break the thread of the narrative. A violin solo by Mr. B. H. Danks showed that gentleman to be pretty well at home with that instrument and he received numerous bouquets for his effort. A large class recited "Sandalphon" and then the "Midsummer Night's Dream" filled the air with sweet melody. Miss Williams and Miss Lucy Tate performed it in a duet and that means that it was perfectly done.

The only graduate of the session, Miss Mary D. Carter, daughter of our countryman, Mr. Peter Carter, was here introduced by Prof. Hubbard. She was looking exceedingly well in white silk mull, moire trimmings, natural flowers and ruffly ornaments, which set off her natural charms very handsomely, and read the following essay gracefully and distinctly:

ON EVERY HEIGHT THERE LIES REPOSE.

Man has from the beginning of creation associated rest and repose with the idea of elevation.

Man's original conception of Heaven was that it was a place above us and that Hell was a place below us. But he can see now how mistaken his ideas were since he knows that the two places would change localities every twelve hours by the earth turning on its axis.

He can easily find a place for Heaven among the far-away stars that shine so brightly above us, yet so far from the reach of man. He can easily imagine the sun as God's throne with all the stars as worlds revolving around Him in perfect peace and harmony. But he concluded that they were all too fair a place for Hell and in his difficulty to find a suitable place he has been tempted to discard all ideas of such a place and say that God has left no place in this universe for the eternal punishment of the evil doers. Dante has told us that his idea of Heaven was that it was not only above us but that it was formed of seven circles and to attain perfect bliss it was necessary to reach the topmost one. The peace of God seems to rest on the mountain top. Christ, when He sought solitude and prayer, went up into a mountain, and it is instinct with man to climb the rough mountain side in search of the rest he is sure to find when he reaches the top.

A party traveling in the West concluded to view the wonderful dome of Mt. Shasta. At first they did not intend to ascend the knob, but after resting a day at the foot of this solitary monarch of the West, they decided on the morrow to undertake the perilous ascent of his rough height. Long before the sun had risen and the birds left their places of rest, we sallied forth from the camp, dressed in suits that would stand the rain and storms and would pass through the jungle. We took with us a guide and the necessary provisions. Thus equipped we wound our way through the bushes and briars to the base of the mountain. Who can tell with what inward content we set forth to explore the wonderful dome of this mysterious mountain. As the sun rose the long line of hills of which this was one of the points could be clearly seen above the horizon, while above them all towered the point toward which we had set our faces. After we had traveled some distance we were obliged to leave the high road and climb through bushes and briars and pull ourselves up almost perpendicular banks, while the rocks rolled and slipped from under our feet. Our hold on the bushes and shrubs would give way and we would fall back almost as far as we had advanced. The further we ascended the more rugged it seemed. We had not traveled much further up this dangerous height when it began to rain. It rained on the mountain as it had never rained in the valley beneath. The black clouds seemed to come down upon us, the lightning flashed in blinding sheets around us and the thunder rolled in a heavy deafening sound that made even the rocks tremble for their security. During this dreadful storm we had no place of shelter; it was not even safe to stop on the wayside, to look above us would make one dizzy for the whole mountain seemed ready to topple over on us and bury us forever beneath its mass of rocks and earth. We pressed on until it became unsafe to proceed further on account of the rushing waters and falling rocks that would break loose their hold in the earth and tumble down the side of the mountain, destroying everything in their way. In a few hours we were again traveling on our journey, which seemed, when looking above, to meet the sky, but to look around on this wild mountain scene which stretched out on every side, grand, majestic and rugged, one could not help perceiving that nature had made this mountain as interesting as possible. The immense base, clothed in rich foliage, seemed far away beneath us, yet dark and gloomy and like a black wall, stood the side of the mountain up which we were to climb. To look at it even was discouraging, for we were getting weary and heartsick; but, shall we wend our way backward down this seemingly impassable precipice? Nay, verily, such a thought must not for a moment be entertained; so we press on step after step. Up the rocky inclivities we climbed until we were in sight of the fairy land of the top, then in the fullness of its meaning we realized, "On every height there lies repose." What a scene was presented to our view, how totally unlike anything we had ever before witnessed.

Few can imagine with what delight we looked around on this grand view spread out like a panorama around us and what pleasure it was to look back and see that we had overcome all the hardships and trials and could forever rest in this Eden. Above us was the sky of an intense blue; not a cloud to obstruct our gaze into the vaulted heaven, while on every side was all that we could wish, the large trees waving their outstretched arms in the cool breeze, while the birds sang merrily among their leaves.

At our feet the pure, clear water bubbled forth from the ground and ran with a gentle murmur down the dangerous steep we had just ascended. To look upon this godly land was truly a scene such as man cannot often enjoy in his short, restless life; but to dwell here would surely make one desire to live always.

Just so it is with our school lives. We start from home in the morning, light hearted and happy, knowing nothing of the toils and trials there will be in our lives. Our minds are filled with the thought that we will soon know how to read and write just as well as our elders, who have already climbed the rough mountain. But who can make us realize the trials to be gone through with until they have been taught us by experience?

Our first step up the hill is to learn our letters. This done the second step is accomplished with many a frown seen upon the brow, many a discouraged look and anxious heart. But on and on we struggle up the hill until we are nearing the top, then it is we begin to realize how little we know of the meaning of knowledge. We feel as if we were hardly capable of standing on the side of so vast a mountain. We take courage and climb on step after step, nearer and nearer the top, until we reach the plane we have so long sought.

Then it is we realize our school toils are over and that we rest on a height where lies repose. Repose from the monotony of school life; of course we are not so presumptuous as to imagine that we have reached the topmost height of the hill of science or that our education is completed. We are convinced from the experience of those who have succeeded in life that when we leave school we have only begun to climb the height on whose summit we will find repose. Look for an instant at the life of Thomas Carlyle. He was the son of a stone mason and received his education under many difficulties and trials. After his education was completed he tried several professions, but none that he had yet tried suited him and he determined to be a writer. His works were for a long time in vair, no one would listen to him or read his books. His first great work was recognized by only two men, but when he reached the height he was seen to be one of the leading men of his time.

Some young ladies entertain very mis- ideas concerning school life. They anxiously await commencement day and when "Time's falling moments" have brought the long looked for occasion, they imagine the goal is reached, that the uttermost height is gained and they anticipate pleasure henceforth in reclining on beds of Elysian ease. Sooner or later they will be aroused from this delusion and unless they press onward and upward

"The mind will sink, a blighted flower, Dead to sunshine and the shower, A broken gem whose morn light Is scattered ne'er to resume."

Rev. Mr. Helm delivered the annual address, which possessed the merit both of brevity and appropriateness. Prof. Hubbard presented the diploma to the graduate, accompanying it with a few words of advice and commendation, and afterwards spoke of the future of the school and the excellent faculty he had engaged for the next session, which begins Sept. 1. The Military March by Misses Williams, Annie Dishman, Alpha Tyree and Dora Caldwell closed the exercises, the benediction was pronounced by Elder W. L. Williams and the 18th scholastic session of Stanford Female College was at an end. Everything passed off in a most satisfactory manner, to the credit of all concerned, and to the evident delight of those who sat through the four hours that the programme consumed. The young ladies were the recipients of many floral offerings and the graduate in addition to many of these was remembered with several baskets of fruits and confections.

The session just closed has proved very successful and fairly remunerative. President Hubbard will redouble his efforts to make the next even more worthy of support and with his accomplished wife and corps of trained assistants he is sure that he will be able to do so. The following announcements are made by authority:

Miss Arnall, of Georgia, a graduate of the New England Conservatory and a distinguished teacher of music and gymnastics, takes charge of the music department. She is a fine vocalist. Miss Tipton, of Tennessee, a graduate of the Peabody Normal College, Nashville, will assist in the literary department and give instructions in calisthenics. This lady is well versed in modern methods of instruction and discipline. Miss Bedinger is a member of a well-known Kentucky family and a distinguished graduate of the Art School of Cincinnati, where she is taking a post-graduate course and doing order work. All these ladies have received special instructions in their professions and have presented testimonials from the very highest authority as to character and competency.

The present management of the College will hereafter adhere strictly to the policy of employing none but Conservatory and Normal school teachers. We believe that our people will come to see the advantages thus presented and will give the College their best support. All of us are mutually interested in the success of the institution and should not send our daughters away, when all that any school can give can be obtained at home.

DEATHS' DOINGS.

—Thomas W. Means, the iron king of the Hanging Rock Iron region, died at Ashland Sunday.

—Mr. John Ballard, aged 81 years, died near Highland, of heart disease, on the 4th. He was deacon for 20 years of Mt. Moriah Christian church and a highly respected citizen.

—Died, on June 4th, 1890, at his residence near Warrensburg, Mo., E. W. Dawson, formerly of this county, of cancer of the stomach. Deceased was about 72 years of age and brother of J. L. Dawson, Sr., of this county. The Dawson family consisted of 8 children, 5 boys and 3 girls. They are all dead but J. L., the eldest, who is now in his 84th year. Truly saith the Scripture "The last shall be first and the first last."

MATRIMONIAL MATTERS.

—A Trenton, N.J., wife wants a divorce because her husband danced upon her new spring bonnet.

—There are 2,700 courts in the United States authorized to grant divorces and one marriage in every 28 is thus annulled.

—Married, Thursday, 6th, by Rev. J. R. Tercy, Wm. F. Clymer and Miss Lucy Bourne, both of Lincoln county.—Lancaster Record.

—Dr. B. F. Phillips, the Danville wholesale liquor dealer, and Miss Bettie Delton were married at the bride's sister's, Mrs. Louise Van Winkle, last week.

—Mr. Samuel R. Newland and Miss Annie E. Murphy, daughter of Mr. Logan Murphy, obtained license and were married at the bride's home Sunday.

—Charles W. Shiveley, of Campbellsburg, and Miss Charlena Clark, of Barboursville, were married last week. The groom is a well-known and popular drummer.

—"John," said the minister, "will you take this woman to be your wedded wife?" "Now, here, parson, what's the use of asking questions like that? What do you suppose I am after, a divorce?"

—Miss Minnie Phillips, daughter of H. B. Phillips, and Mr. B. Ray Edmonds, of the Marion National Bank, will be married at the Baptist church in this city Wednesday evening.—Lebanon Enterprise.

—Rev. Morris Evans, at his residence in this place, yesterday, married Miss Annie Field, music teacher at Madison Female Institute, and Prof. D. W. Basson, of Millersburg College. The marriage was a surprise to all, no previous intimation having been given.—Richmond Register.

CHURCH AFFAIRS.

—Rev. Will C. Barnes has been elected assistant rector of Christ's Church, Lexington, and has entered on the discharge of his duties.

—The new Methodist church at Pineville will be dedicated on the 4th Sunday in this month. Bishop Wilson, who was expected to be here, it has been found, will be unable to attend, and Dr. W. T. Pinter has been engaged to take part in the dedicatory exercises.—Pineville Messenger.

—Dr. T. C. Carter, editor of the Methodist Advocate, one of the most prominent Methodist divines in the South and who two years ago received the solid vote of the South for Bishop of the Southern Diocese is the defendant in a church trial at Chattanooga, now being conducted by a number of ministers of the conference on the charge of adultery.

—The dedication of the Moreland Methodist church was largely attended and the crowd enjoyed both a spiritual and physical feast. Rev. H. C. Morrison preached in the morning and afternoon and carried the people away with his drollery and eloquence. The remaining debt of $267 was raised and the Lord was not mocked with mortgaged property. The basket dinner was abundant and comprehensive and no one went away hungry. The members have done themselves proud, both in the church they have built and the manner in which they entertained.

MISS LENA WILLIAMS, of Mt. Vernon, is visiting her sister, Mrs. W. J. Sparks.

E. B. BEAZLEY went up to Middlesboro Sunday to see to his investments there.

Mrs. S. C. TRUEHEART, of Millersburg, spent Sunday with her brother, Mr. S. S. Myers.

W. E. LEE, the clever representative of the Wrought Iron Range Co., was here Saturday.

MISS RACHEL ALLISON, of Georgetown, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Judge Stephen Burch.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN S. HUGHES and Miss Neale Campbell went to Rock Castle Springs yesterday.

MISS MARY ALCORN went to Richmond yesterday to attend the commencement exercises of Central University.

MRS. HELM and Mary and Ben Helm went to Elizabethtown yesterday to spend a month with relatives.

MRS. PATTIE ALLEN, who has been with her sister, Mrs. J. M. Hubbard, left yesterday for Normal Park, Ill.

MR. AND MRS. THOS. METCALF are over from Nicholasville for a few days, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Foster.

MR. E. C. WALTON will leave this morning for Hot Springs and other Western points for a few weeks' travel.

MISSES MATTIE and MAGGIE OWSLEY went to Richmond Saturday to spend commencement week with Miss Alma Hagan.

LITTLE MISS PEABE BURNSIDE is the guest of her sister, Mrs. E. P. Owsley, at Hustonville, this week, her first visit from home.

MR. J. T. CARSON left Saturday for the East to spend a month or go. During his absence he will visit New York, Buffalo and Long Branch.

MISSES JULIA PEYTON and Dolly Williams left for Hustonville Saturday, but will honor us with their presence often during the summer.

MISS ANNIE DISHMAN, the bright little pupil from Barbourville, who attended the College for two or three sessions, went home yesterday to spend the vacation.

MISS LAURA MCANALLY will leave for Atlanta to-day to spend the vacation with her mother. She has nearly recovered from her recent severe spell of sickness.

MESSES. B. G. BOYLE, of the Danville Advocate, and R. E. Hughes, of the Lancaster Record, were here yesterday working the crowd for their respective newspapers.

EDDIE STALLCUP, of Sylvia, Kas., who had the misfortune to lose his wife a week ago, after less than six weeks of married life, is visiting his mother, Mrs. S. S. Myers.

E. HURST, Esq., of Pineville, attended the commencement exercises and was much pleased. He took his daughter home Saturday, but will return with her promptly on the opening of next session.

Mrs. U. D. SIMSON and children and Mrs. Traylor, of Gilbert's Creek, Misses Lizzie Simpson, of Marksburg, and Lizzie Thompson, of Lancaster, paid a flying visit to Mrs. A. E. Phillips, on Danville avenue Friday.

MR. D. G. SLAUGHTER and son Jimmie, were here yesterday advertising Green-Briar and Dripping Springs. The latter will start in a few days and travel all over the State for the purpose of bringing the new resort into public notice.

MISS DORA CALDWELL, the accomplished art teacher at the College last session, started home Saturday. She made a great many friends during her brief stay here, who will always remember her with pleasure and wish her success in life.

MISS MARY CARTER received the handsomest compliment of having nearly every one of the people of her neighborhood come to see her graduate, a fact which shows how popular she is. Mrs. Carter was so proud and happy she could scarcely restrain her feelings.

MISS EMMA McKEAN, of the College faculty, left for her home in Ohio yesterday. She has been with us two sessions and during the time has endeared herself to many friends, who are sorry to know she will not return next session, and who earnestly hope that her lines may always fall in pleasant places.

By a strange oversight the names of Misses Allene Welsh, of Nicholasville, and Gertie Grady, of Columbia, were omitted from the report of the hop but we beg their pardon and now supply the omission. The former was beautifully attired in blue satin, beaded front, pearls, and the latter in white silk and diamonds.

Mr. J. P. Crow, partner of Mr. S. T. Cobb, of Harriman, Tenn., was here this week on business.—Richmond Register.

CITY AND VICINITY.

NEW Glassware and Jelly Glasses at A. A. Warren's.

If you need a good set of buggy harness call on J. B. Foster.

HORSE TIMERS, finely adjusted movements, a specialty. Call and see them. I carry them in stock. Robert Fenzel.

We have a few more Webster's Unabridged Dictionaries that can be had with this paper one year for $4.50. If you have paid for your paper already the dictionary will be sent for $2.50.

WILLIS GRIFFIN, the negro who cut Hannah Garvin, was tried before Judge Varnon and a jury Saturday and fined $75, to be worked out if not paid or reprieved. He went to jail.

FOR CASH.—On and after July 1 we will do a strictly cash business and those persons owing us accounts are earnestly requested to settle them at the earliest possible date. Combest & Allen, livery men, Hustonville.

BELIEVING that it will be advantageous to the purchaser as well as ourselves, we will begin on July 1 to sell exclusively for cash. Persons indebted to us will please come forward and settle their accounts. Weatherford & Cook, Hustonville, Ky.

MR. O. V. RILEY, who was indicted by the grand jury for assaulting J. C. Parrish, had his trial before Judge Crutcher and was acquitted, the evidence being to the effect that Mr. Riley's action was justifiable under the circumstances.—Pineville Messenger.

THE ex-Confederate and Federal soldiers at Middlesboro have inaugurated a movement to raise money for the erection on the top of Pinnacle mountain, at Cumberland Gap, of colossal statues of Gen. U. S. Grant and Robert E. Lee, and the general public will be asked to subscribe.

Is the county court yesterday B. F. Engleman qualified as justice of the peace in the Hubble precinct and M. S. Bastin as administrator of his brother, John H. Bastin. Since the last term T. D. Newland was appointed and qualified as administrator of Pat Muldoon, the old Irishman so well known in this section. John W. Bright also qualified as justice in the Hubble precinct and John Moore as constable in the Hustonville precinct.

No Mob—Commonwealth's Attorney Clark telegraphed Jailer Owens Friday that there were indications of a mob coming from Whitley county to rescue the man, Beth Fuson, who is in jail here for safe keeping until the court of appeals passes on his petition for a new trial. Mr. Owens put on a few guards, though he had no idea it was necessary.

Our jail is so constructed that one man can whip a mob of 1,000 and two can put 10,000 to flight. We have got money to bet that no mob ever takes Fuson from this jail.

ALMOST A PANIC.—While Miss Clara Lackey was reciting "Paradise and the Peri" a red light was thrown on her to heighten the effect of the scene. The sudden flash caused some lady to think that fire had broken out and to hallow at the top of her voice. The audience rose to its feet and attempted to rush to the door and down the steps of the Opera House, but was held back by those standing there, while Prof. Hubbard and others did their best to explain and to quiet the panic-stricken crowd. Order was restored in a few minutes and then everybody felt like kicking himself for acting so foolishly.

THE escort to President H. E. Huntington and party has returned and say they were met with a royal reception all along the line of the Cumberland railroad survey. The Casey people promised the right-of-way and Adair county people guaranteed the same through her and a subscription of $20,000 besides. The party was met at Neetsville by Gov. Hindman and others, of Columbia, and on arriving there they were cordially received. Mr. Huntington was very favorably impressed with the country and the cheapness of the survey, but he made no actual promise to build the road. The Stanford men came back from Columbia and Gov. Hindman and others went on to Gallatin with Mr. Huntington.

THE very delightful entertainment given by the Misses Tribble at Junction City, Friday evening, was attended by the society people of this entire section, who are now lauding those young ladies for so elegant an evening. The party was given the graduating class of Daughters College and they with the fair hostesses did the entertaining superbly. The large dining-room was converted into a ball-room and there till nearly 3 o'clock the beaux and belles glided gracefully through the glorious waltz or participated in the stately lancers and quadrilles. At the most opportune hour a splendid lunch was enjoyed, thus giving renewed spirits to the worshippers of Terpsichore. It was a grand entertainment and will live long in the memories of those who attended.

By a strange oversight the names of Misses Allene Welsh, of Nicholasville, and Gertie Grady, of Columbia, were omitted from the report of the hop but we beg their pardon and now supply the omission. The former was beautifully attired in blue satin, beaded front, pearls, and the latter in white silk and diamonds.

THE Hustonville Fair will be held July 22, 23 and 24 and it is going to be the best of the series.

"HAPPY JACK," alias John H. Miller, bites over in a column of eulogy of his friend Woodford W. Longmoor, in yesterday's Courier-Journal.

A SNEAK THIEF walked off Sunday with nice new hat belonging to Mr. J. E. Farris. It was hanging in his back porch and was taken about dusk.

THE preacher got after the Presbyterians who danced at the late hop, in his sermon Sunday, and said that the session would attend to their cases. Poor girls.

THE fast mail on the Q. & C., which formerly left Cincinnati at 6:35 a. m., now leaves at 8:15, passing Junction City in time for passengers on the northbound mail train on this division to make connection for Somerset and Southern points.

THE K. C. will run an excursion train to Paris on the 12th, the occasion being the grand Odd Fellows celebration, at $2 for the round-trip, which is less than half fare. The train will leave Rowland at 4:30 a. m.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.—Conducto r Patterson, on freight 38, accidentally shot George Parker, one of his brakemen, at Gethsemane, Friday. He was carelessly handling a pistol, which he supposed was unloaded, but which was discharged, the bullet entering the fleshy part of Parker's shoulder. The wound is a painful one, but is not considered serious. Both parties have headquarters at Rowland.

AT the examining trial of Craig Skidmore, Saturday, for crushing the skull of Milton Simpson, a colored man, several weeks ago, he was held to the circuit court in $150. The commonwealth made out a pretty tough case, but the defense put the matter in a very different light. Simpson, though weak, was able to be present and testify. He was also held to the circuit court on the charge of carrying concealed weapons in the shape of brass knucks.

FRANK ROUT had a narrow escape Saturday night. He was coming from Mt. Vernon on the local freight, which slackened up near Adam Pence's farm and thinking he could save a walk by cutting thro' the country home, he jumped from the train. It was moving at a livelier rate than he thought and when he struck the ground it was on a fill, which he went tumbling down. It was a long roll and Mr. Rout came out considerably the "worse for wear" and is now too stiff to do anything save lie in bed and wait for his recovery.

FOR CONTEMPT.—Jailer Sheppard, of Pulaski, lodged old man Wm. McQuerry in jail here Sunday for contempt of court. It seems that a sister of McQuerry sued him for some western land, which she claimed belonged to her, but to which he held the deed. The lower court decided in her favor and he was ordered to transfer the property to his sister. He took an appeal but the higher court sustained the original decision.

Still he refused to make the deed and at the last term of the Lincoln circuit court an order of arrest was made returnable to a special term of the court, June 17th, and bond fixed at $1,000. Although fully able to give it he refused to do so, but came to jail instead. He is 70 years old and seems to have been born with a chronic case of stubbornness. Mr. Sheppard had to go twice to arrest him. The first time he flatly refused to go and the jailer having no way to carry him he had to return without him. The next time he took a wagon and posse and brought him by sheer force, though the old man gave up when he saw he could not help himself.

KILLED IN COURT.—The court-room at Liberty was the scene of a most bloody and cowardly murder, Saturday afternoon. Bud Riffe, a negro, was on trial for the murder of Alonzo Brown, a white man, whom he killed at Yosemite Feb. 13, 1888, in a row over throwing dice for the drinks. All the testimony was in and Mr. George Stone was speaking for the prosecution, when without the slightest intimation of his intention, Lawrence Brown, a brother of the dead man, rushed out of a jury-room to the back of the prisoner and fired three times in rapid succession at him. The first ball passed through the back of his chair and only made a slight wound in his back, the other two entered the back of his head, producing unconsciousness, and death in two hours. The shots caused great excitement in the court-room, but Brown was seized by the officers before he could get away and then Sheriff Myers with a guard hurried him off to jail at Danville, fearing that his friends might attempt to rescue him. There was no earthly excuse for the deed, as there was no apprehension that the jury would acquit, in fact a majority afterwards said they would have sent him to the penitentiary for 21 years. John W. Yerkes, Esq., who was presiding as judge at the time, immediately ordered the sheriff to summon a special grand-jury, the regular one having adjourned, to meet this morning and consider the case. The trial for the heinous act will then be called and had at this term, if possible.

THE very delightful entertainment given by the Misses Tribble at Junction City, Friday evening, was attended by the society people of this entire section, who are now lauding those young ladies for so elegant an evening. The party was given the graduating class of Daughters College and they with the fair hostesses did the entertaining superbly. The large dining-room was converted into a ball-room and there till nearly 3 o'clock the beaux and belles glided gracefully through the glorious waltz or participated in the stately lancers and quadrilles. At the most opportune hour a splendid lunch was enjoyed, thus giving renewed spirits to the worshippers of Terpsichore. It was a grand entertainment and will live long in the memories of those who attended.

YESTERDAY was a very dull court day. There was but little stock offered and no sales that we heard of. Perhaps it will be better when the change of day is better understood.

THE school trustees of District No. 4, Mt. Xenia, have secured Miss Lillie Petrus, an experienced teacher from Semeret, who will begin teaching on the first Monday in July.

THE signal service predicted rain yesterday and it began to fall in 10 minutes after the signal was displayed. There were only light showers, however, but a good rain would be welcome.

In this school district Saturday T. D. Newland was elected trustee, Hugh Seargent and J. Marsh Coffey at Walnut Flat, W. L. Dawson at Mt. Xenia and S. R. Cook at Goshen and Henry Gerke at Highland.

THE trustees of the Stanford Male and Female Seminary are so well pleased with the manner in which Prof. James G. Denny has managed the school that they unanimously tendered it to him again and he has accepted. The compliment is a high one but thoroughly deserved.

THE Stanford Roller Mills sold at auction yesterday for $10,000, although they have cost fully $40,000 from first to last. A syndicate composed of the following gentlemen were the purchasers: Dr. S. G. Hocker, S. T. Harris, F. Reid, J. W. Hayden, T. J. Foster, W. G. Welch, Tom Metcalf, Adam Pence and J. S. Hocker.

ROY'S MILL, on Green River, was destroyed by fire Thursday night. It was the property of R. T. Pierce and G. M. Brown, of Casey, they having bought it for $2,001, or $1 more than the mortgage held on it by our townsman, W. P. Tate. The property was not in good condition and had not been running for sometime. It is supposed that it was set afire. There was no insurance.

THE Louisville Truth, whose name is sometimes misleading, has the following: "Gov. Givens is jealous of Middlesboro. He is not pleased with the fine advertisement it got from its great fire last week, and it is intimated that he has made arrangements to burn down his own town of Barbourville with such a flourish and an eclat that the Middlesboro conflagration will be immediately eclipsed."

LANCASTER had an election for councilmen Saturday. A dispatch says that two strong tickets were in the field, one known as the people's low-tax ticket and the other as the citizens' ticket. The colored man was brought to the polls and by representatives of either party paying his town taxes was allowed to vote. The fight was a hard one, but the people's low-tax ticket got there, which is composed of five worthy gentlemen: R. E. McRoberts, J. G. Sweeney, W. R. Morris, J. T. Palmer and Joe Weisiger.

A PRETTY good crowd listened to a very creditable speech on "Temperance" by Mr. C. E. Powell yesterday and seemed much pleased and edified. He was followed by Eld. J. Q. Montgomery, who was anxious to know what credit, honor or wealth Lincoln county had acquired in the reopening of saloons. He took a dig at the legislature in general and at Hon. R. C. Warren in particular, but was moderate in his criticisms. After the speaking the prohibitionists crawled into a hole, that is to say the jury room and reporters being barred, we have to speak from heresy as to what was done. They staid in their hole until 5:45 and then announced the following nominations for county offices: For constitutional convention J. T. Hackley; judge, J. M. McRoberts, Jr.; jailer, J. M. Sibold; for county clerk, W. R. Gooch. No other nominations were made. As this ticket was hatched out by about a dozen bosses it is not likely that the men will accept. If they are the sensible men we take them to be they will not.

HOORIBLY MANGLED.—As freight train 38, J. B. Douglas, conductor, was coming down the hill a few miles north of Mt. Vernon, Saturday morning, W. M. Wilson, a brakeman, aged about 25 and from Somerset, attempted to step from one box car to another. The train came uncoupled just at that moment, and the unfortunate brakeman fell in front of the second section and the 8 or 10 cars of that section passed over his body, cutting him nearly in two about the breast and mangling both legs to a jelly. He was of course dead when picked up and a fearful looking object to behold. Mr. Wilson had only been braking a short while and on this trip went out for another man. His body was brought here where it was placed in charge of Undertaker Huffman, who prepared it for burial and expressed it to his family at Somerset.

MR. C. R. BROCK, who graduated at the A. & M. College, Lexington, passed up to his home near London, Friday. After teaching a private school for several months Mr. Brock will begin the study of law. The Lexington Press said of his graduating oration: "Mr. Charles R. Brock, who hails from the mountains and is proud of it, and whose home is in London, followed with an oration entitled, 'Slaves in a Land of Freedom.' His subject was well conceived and successfully treated. In the course of his remarks he displayed much progressive thought and decided talent as a speaker. His delivery was emphatic and forcible, graceful and pleasing. His effort was much lauded and his popularity was shown by a shower of flowers and mement

An Envelope Moistener and Sealer.

The accompanying illustration represents a device for moistening envelopes, pressing the flap down and sealing the envelope. It has been patented by Mr. James Maret, of Mt. Vernon, Ky. In standards, upon a suitable base, is journaled a tapering roller, and on one of the standards is held a water reservoir, with which is connected a holder supporting a thin, flat sponge, held close to the roller. The reservoir has an aperture in the corner adjoining the sponge holder, through which water passes to the sponge being governed by a plug or screw. At one side of the base is a standard, which supports a guide under the sponge holder. In other standards on the same base is journaled a tapering roller, the bearings of which are supported by spiral springs, an upper roller being journaled on a rod extending from one of the standards in such a way that these rollers are held in yielding contact with each other. The gummed surface on the envelope flap is first moistened by passing it between the guide and the sponge holder, drawing it forward over the roller beneath, when the flap is turned down and the envelope passed between the spring pressed rollers, thus effectually sealing it. A corner of the envelope may also be conveniently moistened to receive the stamp by means of this device.—Scientific American.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve

The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sore ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetanus, hives, hounds, blisters, scalds, and all skin eruptions.
